

RETRACTIONRetraction notice: “The effect of aromatherapy with orange essential oil on anxiety and pain in patients with fractured limbs admitted to an emergency ward: a randomized clinical trial“*[Cent Eur J Nurs Midw 2017;8(4):717-722. DOI: 10.15452/CEJNM.2017.08.0024]*Davood Hekmatpou¹, Yasaman Pourandish², Poursan Varvani Farahani¹, Ramin Parvizrad¹¹Department of Nursing, Traditional and Complementary Medicine Research Center, Arak University of Medical Sciences, Arak, Iran²Department of Nursing, Traditional and Complementary Medicine Research Center, Arak University of Medical Sciences, Arak, Iran (student)

This article has been retracted: please see CEJNM “Correction and retraction policy” (https://cejnm.osu.cz/artkey/inf-990000-0600_Editorial-Publishing-Policies.php).

The Central European Journal of Nursing and Midwifery is a member of the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE), and follows its basic guidelines for practices and procedures in publication ethics.

This article has been retracted at the request of the Editor-in-Chief. This article is a duplicate of a papers with minor modifications that were submitted to and published in Indian Journal of Palliative Care, 2017;23(4):431 and Der Pharma Chemica, 2017;9(3):27–32. One of the conditions of submission of a paper for publication is that authors declare explicitly that the article has not been published in another journal, nor has not been provided for publishing to any other journal. As such this article represents a severe abuse of the scientific publishing system.

CEJNM regrets the academic work was compromised and apologises to readers.